Thanks to All Volunteer Ad Hoc Reviewers

The many men and women who serve as ad hoc reviewers for the more than 300 manuscripts that the Journal of American College Health receives annually are among the most valuable contributors to the quality of this journal. Consulting editors, who are members of the American College Health Association, need assistance from reviewers who have expertise in the diverse fields of our submissions. We wish to express our thanks and deep gratitude to them for the time and effort they have devoted to providing thoughtful evaluations of these works. In addition, we thank those who have served informally and anonymously with authors, colleagues, and other reviewers for their insightful advice and comments. Reviewing is often tedious work for which we cannot offer any tangible reward other than listing these volunteers in a thank-you note in the final issue of each volume year.
